Serving one of the world’s largest economies for over 20 years, Winston & Strawn’s Los Angeles office is home to more than 100 attorneys and professional staff. Under the guidance of Office Managing Partner Angela M. Machala, our L.A. office thrives as a dynamic and tightly knit community that celebrates diversity, with more than half of our L.A. attorneys identifying as women, racial/ethnic minorities, and/or LGBTQ+. Our L.A. lawyers—who are equally split between litigation and transactional work—advise 80+ Fortune 500 companies, which is a testament to the collaborative environment we’ve created to provide exceptional legal services.

Winston’s Los Angeles office is deeply committed to giving back to the community. Through pro bono work, volunteer initiatives, and charitable activities, our attorneys wholeheartedly support the firm’s pro bono efforts, going above and beyond with a 100 percent contribution of 20 or more pro bono hours per year. In a recent case, we successfully secured a favorable settlement for our client who had been incarcerated in harsh conditions for three months before charges of being an accessory to murder were dropped for lack of evidence.

Furthermore, our office actively participates in various initiatives, including weekly reading sessions with children at Leo Politi Elementary School through our partnership with Read to a Child, fundraising and pro bono service for Learning Rights Law Center’s Raising the Bar for Education Challenge, the Food from the Bar campaign benefiting the Los Angeles Regional Food Bank, and the Ketchum-Downtown YMCA Stair Climb. Additionally, we prioritize environmental efforts, maintaining an office compost system and participating in the removal of trash and recyclables along our beaches as part of Winston’s Earth Week campaign.

“ I met several Winston attorneys when I was working at an ad agency prior to law school. What stood out was their genuine enjoyment of their work and their camaraderie, and this perception was confirmed when I joined the firm. ”
